

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Rich Williams Joins Rockwell Labs Ltd as Technical Representative for the Midwest Territory

Rockwell Labs Ltd is pleased to announce that effective July 3rd, Rich Williams has joined the company as its Technical Representative for the Midwest territory, encompassing Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and the St. Louis area of Missouri.

Rich has been involved in the professional pest management industry for almost 20 years providing technical sales and support to the industry. He is well known for developing strong PMP and distributor relationships and has extensive experience working with technicians in the field and providing solutions for pest management professionals.

“We are very excited to have Rich as part of the Rockwell team and representing our product line in the marketplace,” said James Osuch, Rockwell’s Vice President of Sales. “His years of experience, knowledge, and relationships in the Midwest territory will only strengthen the continued growth and success Rockwell Labs has achieved in the region. The fact that he is centrally located in Indianapolis will allow him to better support and engage with our customers in the Ohio Valley.”

Rich can be reached at 317-490-5080 and at rwilliams@rockwelllabs.com. Rockwell’s main office may be contacted at 816-283-3167, sales@rockwelllabs.com, or through www.rockwelllabs.com.

Rockwell Labs Ltd develops, manufactures and markets products for the professional pest management industry. Products are developed in-house in the company's laboratories and tested in-house, in the field and at major universities. Each of the company's formulated products are produced and packaged at its Kansas City manufacturing plant for optimal freshness and quality. To find out more, please visit www.rockwelllabs.com.
